Call for SAB member candidates

The European Forest Institute (EFI) is looking for candidates to fulfil four (4) Scientific Advisory Board (SAB) memberships.

The Scientific Advisory Board (SAB) contributes to the research and policy support activities of EFI. Its work includes anticipating future research needs, stimulating research and study initiatives, and monitoring EFI's activities. The SAB works as an independent body and it reports to the Board of EFI.

The SAB member will be appointed for a three-year period with the possibility of a three-year extension. The membership period starts according to the Board's decision. The SAB members work on voluntary basis.

The SAB member should be internationally known expert with considerable scientific achievements and experience. To maintain the capacity of the SAB to meet the current and future needs of EFI, especially female candidates and experts on the following topics are encouraged to apply.

- Forest growth and yield modelling
- Forest economics including social aspects
- Forest policy and governance
- Forest bioeconomy

Applications from experts on other related fields are welcome, but expertise and experience matching exactly with the fields outlined above is especially valued.

EFI Staff members are not eligible to apply.

Interested candidates are requested to send their full CV and a signed Letter of Interest and Commitment (see the link below) by 7 June 2023 (at 24 CET) by using the online application form (see the link below). The Board of EFI will select the new SAB member in the fall 2023.

If you have any related questions, please do not hesitate to contact Ms. Katriina Pajari at EFI (katriina.pajari@efi.int).
