Access

To access EFIMED offices, enter the Sant Pau Site via the main entrance gate, at the cross streets of Sant Antoni Maria Claret with Cartagena. The Sant Pau Security team are stationed in the lobby of this administrative pavilion. Upon presenting your identification document to security, you will be given a visitor's badge. This badge will allow you to enter both the main site, by swiping it over the magnetic card reader on top of the entrance gate, and EFI's offices directly, by swiping it over the magnetic card reader to unlock the front door.

Be sure to retain your visitor's badge for the duration of your visit. As you leave via the Administration Pavilion, proceed to the exit doors located on either side of the main security gate area. Insert your visitor's badge into the magnetic card reader at the side of the door. The card will remain inside the magnetic box and you may exit freely.

Security

Sant Pau has very strict security and there is a protocol in place to register all visitors to the site in advance of their visit. Please send us your identification number (passport, ID card) in advance so that it can be registered with security. You will then need to show this document to the guards upon entering.

Travelling to Barcelona

Barcelona is an international hub and major destination in Europe with direct connections to many European and extra-European destinations.

Barcelona Airports

Barcelona El Prat Airport is the main city's airport, and is located 12 km southwest of the city centre. We recommend travelling to this airport. The airport has two terminals, T1 and T2.

Barcelona is also served by two other minor airports, Girona Airport (85Km to the north) and Reus Airport (110km to the south). These airports are mainly served by low cost operators and are connected to Barcelona city only by bus service (1.5 hours).

Transport between Barcelona airport and the city centre

There are several options when travelling to and from Barcelona El Prat airport.

Taxi: Taxi fares from the airport to the city cost approx. 30 € and the trip takes around 25 minutes. Taxi ranks are located near the arrivals halls (look for signs in arrival halls).

Airport bus: The AeroBus is a frequent and regular service connecting Airport T1 and T2 with the city centre (Plaça Espanya and Plaça Catalunya). See timetables on their website. Check your terminal when travelling from the city centre. Bus for T1 is labelled as Aerobus A1, and that for T2 is labelled Aerobus A2. Price is 5,90€ one-way per person, or 10,20€ return ticket valid within 15 days later.

Train: For those arriving at T2, an excellent alternative to the bus would be the train. This terminal has a train station with direct trains departing every 30 minutes to central Barcelona (Passeig de Gràcia Station or Sants Station). You can buy a T-Casual transport card to use this service, purchase machines are there at the station. Alternatively, you can buy a single train ticket airport > city centre for 4,20€.

Metro: The airport metro line, called L9 Sud, stops at both T1 and T2. The line does not connect to any major metro transport stations, so be sure to plan your route in advance. Note that you cannot use a standard metro ticket, and will need to purchase a special airport ticket for 4,60 €.

Getting around the city

Once in the city, if you plan to use public transport (metro, bus etc) you can buy a paper card with 10 trips. This ticket is called T10 (zone 1 only). It has to be validated each time you travel, and more than one person can use this card if travelling together. This is the most cost-effective way of moving around the city. Please note that the T10 card does not apply for metro travel to the airport. Taxis are relatively cheap. For example, for an average trip within the city central areas, you can often spend less than 10 €.
